

Dear Colleague,

We have the pleasure to invite you to participate on the:

InART'13

1st International Conference on Innovation in Art Research and Technology

Call for papers

This first International Conference on Innovation in Art Research and Technology will be held at the University of Évora between 10th and 13th of July 2013. This event intends to bring together specialists working in the field of Conservation Science and Applied Researches and Technologies for Conservation of Cultural Heritage from all around the world.

As an interdisciplinary platform of dialogue and dissemination of scientific results, this conference will also welcome professionals, academic staff, early stage researchers and students from art history, museology, archaeology, architectural conservation and practical conservation field. Special attention will be given to innovative techniques, tools and products from Surface/Nano-Science and Environmental areas and to novel dissemination/Outreach strategies and tools for Scientific Conservation.

All interested participants may submit proposals for oral communications or posters.

The proposals should be in the form of a written abstract, in English (one page). These should be sent in doc or docx format, until 15th of February 2013, to inart2013@uevora.pt according to the template available on <http://www.inart2013conference.uevora.pt/files/template.doc>

Accepted abstracts of papers and posters will be published in a Book of Abstracts, to be delivered during the conference and to be made available online after the conference.

Accepted oral presentations will be published in two Special Issues of the International Journal of Conservation Science and Conservar Património, according specific instructions to be found on the website of both journals.

Further details on the conference venue, registration fees and accommodation may be found at the conference's home page: <http://www.inart2013conference.uevora.pt>

We look forward to see you in Évora next year.

On behalf of the Organizing Committee
